SCHOOL BOARDS CAN FIND TEACHERS HERE THURSDAY

Vacancies in County Schools May Be Filled at Supt. Bert Coopers' Office On Teachers' Employment Day

Thursday will be teachers' employment day at the office of County Superintendent Bert Cooper.

Mr. Cooper urges all school boards who have not yet selected teachers to come with authority to hire teachers. Teachers who have not yet been employed will be present in his office. There are a number of good teachers to make selections from.

Mr. Cooper estimates that there are from forty to fifty schools who have not selected their teachers for the coming school year.

WILL HAVE BIBLE SCHOOL EVERY DAY

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH TO CONDUCT CLASSES EACH MORNING.

TO EMPLOY IDLE TIME

Sunday School Period not Sufficient for Training Boys and Girls, Says Pastor—Is Open to All.

Announcement was made last Sunday at the Presbyterian church that that church would endeavor to serve, not only its own boys and girls, but the community as a whole this summer by conducting a Daily Vacation Bible School. As the name indicates this is a school meeting daily except Saturday and Sunday for two and a half hours in the morning for five weeks, during the vacation period. June 8 to July 12 are the dates.

"For a long time workers have been realizing that the Sunday school period is not sufficient for training the boys and girls in Christian teachings," said the pastor, the Rev. S. P. Allison. "In 1901 in New York the Daily Vacation Bible School movement began with the definite purpose to convert the idle time of boys and girls into definite religious and moral training. The plan was first developed in connection with settlement of institutional churches, but proved so rich in results that it soon spread, and now successful schools are conducted in all sections of our great cities, and in rural and semi-rural communities."

There will be a kinder garten, and primary and junior departments, and possibly an intermediate division. In this way about the time vacation begins to lose some of its charm, a mother can send the children—all but the smallest—to the Daily Vacation Bible School and know they are not only being well cared for, but receiving a valuable training.

The program is one that will interest every boy and girl. A devotional period opens the day, followed by a memory period for learning selected Bible verses, etc. Then come the music period. A rest period for calesthenics and motion drills affords a change. Bible study and dramatization of Bible stories, and the craft period take up the time until the assembly for a habit of missionary tak, or one on what it means to be a Christian or the like. The number of hours of religious instruction during the school is equal to an entire year of Sunday school work.

Announcement will be made later as to who will compose the staff, but they will be trained and thoroughly competent workers. It is customary to have a nominal tuition fee, which in this school will be $1.00 for the five weeks. This goes to help meet the special expenses of the school. There will be scholarships available so that no boy or girl who wants to attend need be kept away for any reason.

HOPKINS TENNIS PLAYERS WOULD MEET OUR BEST

Howard Stewart Asks for Teams of Citizens and Girls to Come There.

Howard Stewart of Hopkins was in Maryville yesterday trying to promote a tennis match between some of the best players here and representatives of Hopkins. He wants to have the first match at Hopkins and said that they would like for three teams from Maryville to play.

Since there are some fast tennis players in Maryville the challenge was accepted, and three teams will go to Hopkins next week. The three teams are to be composed of three classes of players. The first class will include the best players in town, the second will be representative student players, and the third, girls.

Most of the playing will be in doubles, but there will also be one or two matches in singles.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD AT CLYDE THIS MORNING.

DEATH AFTER OPERATION

Was Member of Enis Bros. Firm and Recently Resigned as Steward of State Hospital No. 2.

Funeral services for James M. Enis of Clyde who died at 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning in a St. Joseph hospital, were held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Benedict's church at Clyde with burial in St. Columbia Cemetery. The Rev. Father Graham conducted the services.

The pall bearers were six nephews of Mr. Enis, who were Frank, Edward James and Roy Merrigan, Raymond Murrin and William Graham.

Mr. Enis was forty-nine years old. His death followed an operation which he had undergone two weeks ago. He was one of the owners of the Enis Brothers store at Clyde and was appointed Steward of State Hospital No. 2 at St. Joseph several months ago, but resigned shortly afterwards. He was sheriff of Nodaway County for two terms, being first elected in 1900, and was re-elected in 1902 by a big majority. At that time the term of the sheriff was two years.

Mr. Enis was born at Conception, Mo., and has lived in this county all of his life. While sheriff, he was very kind to his prisoners and the latter always had something good to say of him. The birthday anniversaries of the prisoners were celebrated with special dinner or some token of remembrance was given them such as flowers. It was during his term, that the two county judges from St. Clair County were here as prisoners.

Mr. Enis is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Enis, formerly Miss Margaret Graham of Maryville, his father, Francis A. Enis, age 79, and five sisters and two brothers: Mrs. E. W. FRENCH PREMIER REJECTS PROPOSAL FOR CONFERENCE

Experts Will Gather in Silesia to Get Information on Polish-German Dispute.

Paris, May 31. — Premier Lloyd George's proposal for an immediate meeting with Premier Briand to discuss the Silesian issue was rejected today by the French premier, and it now appears that fortnight will elapse before formal inter-allied discussions are opened. In the meantime experts will gather in Silesia instead of in Paris so that they can gather first-hand information on the ground in regard to the Polish-German dispute. Briand did not look with favor on a conference at this time, believing that the experts should have an opportunity to study the situation and make a detailed report upon which the premiers and the supreme council would work.

AIRPLANE DROPS TRIBUTE FROM SKY

RITES FOR JOSEPH C. FARNAN WERE MOST IMPRESSIVE

ESTIMATED CROWD 2,500

Ceremonies At Church and Cemetery Attended by Hundreds of Friends And Former Service Men.

By Father Placidus

Where in Nodaway County was Memorial Day, 1921, celebrated most solemnly, most impressively, most religiously? The writer does not wish to express his own opinion, but the thousands that were at Conception on that morning were unanimous (as far as could be heard) saying that it was at the Im. Conception Church and at St. Columba's cemetery of that place. Not that Conception had not seen larger crowds many a time before. Not that it had not witnessed greater celebrations. But the funeral of private Joseph C. Farnan and the memorial services for all our dead soldiers held in connection with that funeral on May 30, 1921, are unique in its history.

The order of the celebration as published before was carried out to the letter, except that the Rev. George Jermain was unable to reach Conception on time, and that the Rev. Fr. Richard, also a Jefferson Township product, sung the solemn Requiem High Mass in his place. Preceding it, at 9:00 a. m., the fifty-five soldier boys in uniform, headed by the band of Conception College, marched to the cemetery chapel, where the Pastor of the Parish said the usual prayers over the remains which were then lovingly carried to the church by the soldier pall-bearers, the flower girls, Misses Bertha Ryan, Dorothy Allen, Fanny Pfeifer and Magdalene Brown, following with the wreaths, and the college band playing the funeral march. At the church U. S. Army Chaplain Ambrose received the corpse, and the solemn Requiem followed without delay, during which the large boys' and men's choir of Conception Abbey and Conception College sung the liturgical plain chant; people acctually crowding one of the largest and most beautiful church edifices in the middle-west. During the entire ceremony the company stood guard over the remains and presented arms at the Consecration and Communion. Opposite the casket, at the rear of the church, hung between the colors the service flag of the Im. Conception Parish with four gold stars and twenty-two purple stars.

The Mass was followed by the most eloquent sermon of the Rev. Fr. Lawrence to which the vast multitude paid the closest attention in spite of the very warm weather, and in which the preacher spoke of the grand procession winded its way through the shaded alley, decorated everywhere with the colors, to the cemetery, where in the soldiers' lot, with the beautiful monument, the remains of Private Joseph C. Farnan are now awaiting the resurrection. Whilst during the procession the band was playing and the multitude praying aloud, Powell's airplane from Stanberry soared above and threw flowers and evergreens over the cemetery.

At the grave the band played at intervals and the crowd sung with voices filled at times with deep emotion and eyes dim with tears of sadness and joy, "Nearer My God to Thee" and "We are Tenting to-night" and "The Star Spangled Banned." And Rev. Chaplain Ambrose read the usual church and army prayers, over the corpse, while Dr. Fred Riley, the commanding officer, spoke twice most feelingly of "our dear boys" and proved here and again as at other places how well he knows to touch and reach the human heart. At last the remains of Private Joseph C. Farnan were lowered; the Firing Squad under the command of Sergeant John Zirfas, gave the salute; Bugler Fred Sharp sounded tap; the band played "America;" the church bells tolled, and the crowd, full of emotions, dispersed. And you could hear them say everywhere: "Was it not grand? I have never seen anything like it." The crowd was estimated at fully 2500. The ceremony lasted two hours and thirty minutes. Our brave boys, may you rest in peace. Our hearts are with you.

HEAVY ENROLLMENT FOR SUMMER TERM

ALMOST FIVE HUNDRED REGISTER IN FIRST TWO DAYS

NEW TEACHERS ADDED

Opening Assembly Is Heard This Morning With Welcome by Pres. Ira Richardson.

The paid enrollment at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon was 410, according to Murray Welling, treasurer. There are many others who enrolled for courses at the college who have not as yet paid their fees.

Almost five hundred students had begun their enrollment for the summer term at the State Teachers College this afternoon in less than two days of registration. A large number of students delayed entering until today, and others are still arriving.

At the opening assembly this morning, a count was made of those who had completed making out their course cards or were doing so, and the number was found to be about 450. Some of these, however, had not yet paid their incidental fees and had not been formally enrolled. Still others, the new students said, had not yet left home and will not be here until tomorrow or later in the week.

Entrance examinations will be held at the College Saturday.

Commencement week will open Sunday afternoon with the baccalaureate sermon by the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass. Class day exercises will be held Monday morning, the class plays Monday night, and the commencement address by former Governor W. T. Harding of Iowa on Tuesday morning.

President Ira Richardson placed every facility of the institution at the command of the summer term students at the opening assembly.

"Play a good deal," he said, "but don't run around in an automobile at 12 o'clock at night."

He outlined various activities for the summer term, among which will be the visit of a Shakesperian company to present several of the plays of the famous dramatist. Efforts are also being made to bring national Commissioner of Education Claxton to Maryville for an address.

Several new instructors have been added to the College faculty for the summer term. Their names, with the departments in which they will teach, are as follows:

Miss Myrtle Ballard, Maryville—English.

Supt. George Dietrich, Carrollton—Mathematics.

Miss Mattie Dykes, King City—English.

Mr. E. O. Harvey, Chula—Physical Education.

FARMER, BANKRUPT OWNS 896 ACRES

LINN COUNTY MAN FORCED TO WALL BY FALLING PRICES.

OTHERS FILE PETITIONS

Tight Money Conditions Make It Impossible for Them to Meet Obli-gations.

Edward Stinson, who until about three years ago lived 8 or 10 miles southeast of Milan, but who lives now west of Linneus, 8 or 10 miles, filed his petition last Monday in the United States Federal Court, at Kansas City, to be adjudged in bankruptcy.

Mr. Stinson and his family are among the best people of our state and have been industrious, hardworking and saving during their entire life. He owns 896 acres in Linn county, where he lives but prices of all farm products have gone down so that it was impossible for him to meet his obligations.

He came to Milan last week and he and his attorney, John W. Clapp, went to Kansas City where he filed bankrupcy proceedings Monday.

His outstanding indebtedness is something like $115,000 and his assets are something a little over $100,000. Mr. Clapp thinks, with proper management, that all creditors will receive most of what is coming to them, but that will depend upon how prices of land, stock and farm products are in the future.

James Braden of Pennville, and J. E. Gum, of Green City, through their attorney, John W. Clapp, have prepared their separate petitions to be adjudged bankrupt and Mr. Clapp left Thursday evening for Kansas City to file papers in the United States Federal Court.

Their petitions show their indebtedness is about $20,000 each, with no assets over and above their exemptions to pay same.

These two young men are of the best people in our county and the Standard regrets very much to know that they are unable to meet their obligations, but the close financial conditions by which the banks can now no longer help them, compel them to take this course. With the pluck and energy of these two men we are confident they they will push forward and recover their financial losses before they quit.—Miland Standard.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

XLVIII.—TERRITORIES

"THE Story of our States" would not be complete without a brief mention of the other territory of the United States, which is not included in the actual forty-eight states. The biggest of these territories is Alaska, with an area of 590,884 square miles. This huge region was under Russian domination until 1867 when the United States purchased it for $7,200,000, or less than two cents an acre. There was some grumbling at the time by a few congressmen over "adding a refrigerator to the United States." But the refrigerator has been found to be well stocked with gold, coal, forests and fisheries, so that Alaska has proven a profitable investment.

Hawaii, like Alaska, is a regular territory. In 1893 there was a successful revolution against the Hawaiian queen, and a provisional government was formed under American protection. In 1898, at the request of the population, Hawaii was annexed to the United States.

Porto Rico, Guam and the Philippines were ceded to the United States in 1899 as a result of the Spanish-American war. Porto Rico and the Philippines are dependencies and not territories. Their local affairs are administered by a legislature of two houses and they are represented in the United States by resident commissioners elected by the legislatures. Guam is under the control of naval officers in command of naval stations. Under similar naval control are the Tutuila group and Samoa, which were ceded in 1899 by Great Britain and Germany.

Then there is the Panama Canal Zone, which was purchased from Panama in 1904 for $10,000,000. This is governed by the Isthmian Canal commission

The year 1917 saw the purchase from Denmark of the Virgin Islands, for $25,000,000. These aggregate only 150 square miles and are temporarily governed by a naval officer.

Finally, there is the District of Columbia, which was organized in 1791, as the seat of our federal government. The residents have no vote for either local or national officials, nor are they represented in congress.

PRICES OF FARM CROPS BELOW PREWAR AVERAGE

Corn, Oats, Barley, Flax, Potatoes And Cotton Are Down—Corn 32 Cents in South Dakota.

The prices of six of the important crops on May 1 of this year were below the prewar average prices for that date, according to figures collected by the Bureau of Crop Estimates, United States Department of Agriculture. These crops are corn, oats, barley, flax, potatoes, and cotton. The report showed that the prices of the three grains—wheat, rye, and buckwheat—were above the prewar average prices. During April the average price of wheat declined from $1.50 to $1.23 per bushel. The report shows that in general the industrial crops, such as flax, cotton, and broom corn, are the most depressed in price, and that food crops, such as wheat, rye, potatoes, and apples, show relatively less decline.

The prices in various parts of the country vary, with South Dakota being the center of the low-price district, the May 1 report shows. The average price of wheat in that State was 90 cents per bushel, and in some counties it was as low as 70 cents. Corn was selling at an average price of 32 cents per bushel in South Dakota, while the average price for the United States was nearly 60 cents. The price of oats was 23 cents per bushel in South Dakota, the average for the United States being 36.8 cents. The report showed a big decline in the price of old potatoes, especially in Michigan, where the average was 29 cents a bushel, which was 20 cents below the average for the United States.

232 MEN ATTEND BIBLE CLASS IN TENT SUNDAY

Maryville Sikhs Score 34 Points More That Clarinda, Although Latter Has More New Members.

The Men's Bible Class of the First Christian Church of Maryville went a few points farther in the lead Sunday morning in their contest with their Clarinda rivals. The total of points scored by the Maryville Sikhs was 728 against 694 for Clarinda, a lead of 34 points.

The Maryville men had 232 members present, of whom 216 were on time and 24 were new members. Clarinda had only 189 present and 182 on time, but 67 of them were new members. The Snodgrass men are now 450 points in the lead, but the Iowans have cut down each Sunday's lead until the two classes are again almost even terms. Maryville's total of points is 2,562 and Clarinda's 2112.

The meeting Sunday was held in the big tent pitched north of the church. The Rev. R. E. Snodgrass was unable to be present, and Dr. Fred Keller of the State Teachers College spoke to the men present.

Cowhide Half-Soles One Shoe

Harold Witten tells the Trenton (Mo.) Times about bringing a hide of a grown cow to Trenton and selling it the other day for 84 cents—4 pounds at two cents per pound. On the same day he paid $1.50 (at this time a very reasonable or common charge) for half-soling a pair of shoes. That sowhide paid for half soling only one shoe, and left a margin of nine cents to begin work on the other shoe.

Randal's Great "Catch"

By HAZEL SMITH

(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Randal can go to college now, Uncle Seth. All the arrangements are made. It is the happiest thought of my life, to realize that it is my power to show you some appreciation of all you and your family have done for me."

"Boy, there never was a truer, better man than you!"

David Prescott walked slowly across the Burton farm. His heart was pretty full. He loved the old man who had been his best friend since he was left an orphan at an early age. The flush and thrill of a good deed, however, were robbed of some of their glamour as David thought of the person most benefited—Randal Burton.

In his own mind David did not believe the old man's son worthy of the sacrifice he was making for him.

Things were at a tight pinch at Burton farm, with little or no cash reserves.

"You see," David had explained to his uncle, "there's a reclamation project to drain Rock Valley, and no one knows every crook and turn of the old river as I do. I have convinced the commissioners of it, too. They have offered me a two years' position as superintendent of the upper dam. I am to get $1,500 a year. Half of that for two years will carry Randal through the city law school."

So it was settled. With a great flourish of trumpets Randal Burton departed for the city.

The best that was in David came out. He had said that no one knew the river as he did, and David now demonstrated the fact. Within a month the engineers on the project found his knowledge a valuable adjunct to their technical processes. At the end of six months the engineers reported that his discovery of a shale obstruction had saved them ten thousand dollars. The commissioners promptly advanced his salary twenty-five per cent.

Time wore on. David found time to take up engineering and study evenings. At the holidays Randal came home. The next vacation David was disappointed to see how little real law education the boy was acquiring.

"Confidentially, between me and you," said Randal, "I don't think as much of the law as I did. A smattering will be enough to help me put up my shingle. Truth is Dave, I've made a catch."

"What kind of a catch?" inquired his cousin.

"Miss Dorothy Vance. Father a millionaire. You'll see her when she comes."

In due time vacation days came around, and Randal returned to the farm. Mr. Burton was grieved, and Dave disappointed. Randal went down to the depot one morning to escort Miss Dorothy to the home of the Delcombes.

The little lady insisted on walking. As they crossed a bridge, her attention was called to a gang of workmen sinking a hollow wooden tube in a mud hole at the bank of the river. The man who was guiding it stood below, half sunk in the slimy clay. It was David Prescott. He waved his hand in friendly greeting to his cousin.

"Come on," spoke Randal hurriedly. "This is not at all interesting."

"But that man waved his hand to you."

"Oh, some mudlark of the crew, I suppose," responded Randal.

"He doesn't look like a mudlark," said Dorothy.

The irritated Randal managed to draw his interested companion away from the scene. He escorted his charge to her friends. Randal called at the Delcombes' home next morning, primed for that vaunted proposal.

Mrs. Delcombe informed him that Miss Vance had started away for a walk along the river. Dorothy had learned that Randal was not the ambitious striving idol she had made of him. She learned of the noble sacrifice of his cousin.

"The deuce!" exclaimed Randal Burton, as he arrived at the bank of the river.

There was the truant lady. She was conversing with David.

Randal came up, brash and braggart as ever. He tried to take Miss Dorothy under his own especial wing. The willful little miss continued interested over the wonderful river project.

"I suppose I can call this evening," submitted Randal in rather a grumbling tone.

"Oh, certainly," smiled the fascinating little miss: "only be sure to bring your cousin, Mr. Prescott, with you. He is the most delightful young man I have ever met.

There is an end to everything, and the end of Randal Burton's careless ambitions was a position in a city office as a second-rate stenographer.

The end of David's acquaintance with pretty Dorothy was a wooing. The wooing ended in a wedding, and David Prescott's noble secrifice for others led to the winning of a loving wife and a sure start in the world as one of its future great engineers.

News From Over The County

Hopkins Journal

Rev. O. W. Freeman, pastor of the Methodist church, is away for a minor operation and expects to be gone five weeks, and there may be no preaching services at his church during this time.

The hoop snake is among the most poisonous of the country and scarce in this part of Missouri, it being very seldom that one is seen, but George Hepburn killed one last week, the snake measuring some four or five feet in length.

Mrs. R. E. Snodgrass is here from Wesleseo, Texas, and expects to remain during the summer in the home of her father, Capt. James Ewing. Her home is in the extreme southwestern part of the Lone Star state, within six miles of the Rio Grand river and just across the line from old Mexico. Mr. Snodgrass owns a ten acre fruit ranch adjoining Weslesco and employs Mexicans to do the work.

For a while excitement was high on Glenco farm, east of Hopkins, when Donald, the 4-year old son of George Hepburn, came up missing one afternoon last week and after diligently searching the home as well as the home of the grandparents nearby, ponds were dragged and wells looked into. The barns were searched and every shed explored but no signs of the boy. The alarm was given and neighbors joined in the search but it was fruitless. Finally some one suggested looking under the house, there having been a hole left in the foundation for the benefit of the dog and cats. It was like going into darkest Africa but the explorer was rewarded by finding the boy curled up in one of the farthest corners sound and fast asleep, having been there presumably about two hours, and thus the gloom and forebodings that had been hovering over the family and friends, was suddenly turned into great joy and thanksgiving.

Henry Behm, the west side farmer, called at the Journal office last Friday and in speaking of snake stories, he has the world beat. He has six or eight bull snakes on his farm from six to seven feet long and that are as kind as kittens and if you should kill one of them, he would prosecute you the same as if you should kill a horse or cow, the snakes being a wonderful help, in his estimation, in ridding the farm of rats and mice and in helping rid the fields of bugs and worms. When the army worms were bad a year or two ago, these snakes would follow the corn rows and hunt for the worms the same as cats hunt for mice and got a lot of them. Henry and his son handle the snakes like they do kittens and in hot weather, the snakes are frequently found coiled around water jugs taken to the fields or meadows and serve the same as a refrigerator in keeping the water cool. When plowing or discing it is frequently necessary to stop and drive the snakes out of the way to keep from running over and killing them, the reptiles responding to the herdsman as readily as a bunch of lambs. The snakes have been on his farm for several years and are pets of the whole family.

The Burlington Junction Post.

Ikey Rees was given the scare of his life Saturday. And he and W. W. Randall, who were riding south of town in the latter's car, narrowly missed injury. The story is this: Ike and Randavy were jogging along at twenty miles an hour, and were engaged in an interesting discussion of the works of William Shakespeare, when like a bolt from a clear sky a terrific force hit the little Ford coupe between the shoulders and almost knocked both occupants from the seat. At first they thought a belated German bomb had struck them, but upon examination it was found that a horse was riding on each running board, while the tongue of the wagon to which they had been hitched was sticking through the rear of the car. The team belonged to Wm. Crane and started to run when it became frightened, with the results as narrated above. Fortunately no one was injured, but Mr. Randall says that at least one man in the party was given a good scare.

She was the highest in her class of eight and therefore entitled to be valedictorian, but her classmates voted this year not have a valedictorian, but she was gvien the position of "Class Poet," a most worthy honor.

SUFFERED SIX YEARS

Mrs. Stoll Tells Women How She Found Relief From Pain

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I suffered for six years with pain every month, had vomiting spells the first two days, and was unfit to do my work. I read in your little book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took the medicine with satisfactory results. I am a mid-wife and recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and my daughters take it. You may publish these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. Louise Stoll, 609 W. York St., Phila., Pa.

It is not natural for women to suffer as did Mrs. Stoll, and in nine cases out of ten it is caused by some displacement or derangement of the system which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes, because it acts as a natural restorative.

Every woman who is subject to cramps, headaches, nervous spells, backache or those dreadful bearing-down pains should profit by Mrs. Stoll's experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and if there is any complication write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., about her health.

STAPER'S

MILLIONAIRE HUSBAND FILES ANSWER TO DIVORCE SUIT

Strips Peggy Hopkins of Glamor, Jewels and Romance and Brands Her as Adventuress.

Chicago, May 31.—Peggy Hopkins Joyce was stripped of her glamor, jewels, millions and romance and held up as a sordid adventuress by her multi-millionaire husband, James Stanley Joyce, in his answer filed today to Peggy's petition for $10,000 a month temporary alimony.

Startling exposures of Peggy's alleged past were made by Joyce in the most voluminous answer ever prepared in a divorce case. The most startling charge made by the lumber prince was the revelation of a hitherto sealed chapter in Peggy's life, that of an enamored army officer taking his own life after an "affair de cour" with Peggy Joyce, and it is charged in his bill that this army officer was driven into debt by his desire to earn Peggy's favor by satisfying her immediate craving for jewels and that he committed suicide in her New York apartments.

The chapter wherein Peggy set forth as a manicurist in a hotel at Richmond, Va., is recited. Joyce shatters Peggy's claims to histrionic merit by declaring that the $700 a week salary she received as an actress was paid not for talent and services but for personal favor by the theatrical magnate who was instrumental in obtaining her employment. The magnate, Joyce declares, also presented Peggy with a $10,000 sable fur coat that has figured conspicuously in the controversy.

Joyce apparently regards himself as a climax of Peggy's adventurous career for he tells his story by listing cold figures of fabulous sums in money, jewels and gifts bestowed by him upon her for trifling affections. Fourteen hundred thousand dollars is the total, Joyce says, he showered on Peggy within the few months that intervened between their marriage and the shattering of their brief romance.

Joyce's answer is a document made up of eighty-four closely printed pages. It is his answer to Peggy's charges of drunkenness and cruelty filed by Peggy's attorneys two weeks ago.

SMALL CROWDS ATTEND MEMORIAL EXERCISES

Veterans Turn Out Well But Citizens Stay at Home or Attend Ceremonies Elsewhere.

Maryville let the ex-soldiers do it on Decoration Day. A pitifully small crowd attended the memorial exercises in the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon, and only a few clustered about the band stand in the court house yard Monday afternoon where the veterans observed the day.

Almost all the members of Sedgwick Post, G. A. R. and the Women's Relief Corps turned out for the parade Sunday, and there was a good representation of the soldiers who served in the more recent wars, with their women's auxiliary, but the crowd which heard the Rev. J. A. Cooper's memorial sermon at the First Baptist church numbered less than three hundred.

Graves of former soldiers in all cemeteries were flagged by the G. A. R. and V. F. W. and kindred organizations, and the latter furnished a firing squad which fired salutes over the graves of four former comrades who fought in France.

Capt. Charles Hyslop, the Rev. Frank J. Mapel and Prof. Harry A. Miller were the speakers at the exercises Monday afternoon, which were held while a rain was threatening. A salute was fired and taps sounded over a mound representing the graves of the dead.

Many Maryville people attended the funerals of John R. Kuntzman, Joseph C. Farhan and Rolla Dicks, soldiers who died in France and whose bodies were returned for burial at Skidmore, Conception and Burlington Junction. The Kuntzman funeral was to have been held Sunday, but the body did not arrive until Monday morning.

MUST HELP FIND DRAFT DESERTERS

RECORDS SHOULD BE CLEARED IF INNOCENT

"WHAT IS A DESERTER?"

Even Though They Enlisted Elsewhere Men Who Fail to Obey Local Boards are Technically Guilty.

Although, as has been repeatedly explained, the publication by the War Department of the lists of men charged with desertion from the draft is in response to a widespread demand from patriotic societies, from the relatives of men who did their full duty and who, in many cases, gave up their lives in the service, from the press, and from the general public, nevertheless, now that the lists are actually published, the Department, strangely enough, is being subjected to a constant fire of drastic criticism for having adopted this means of bringing to trial the men who succeeded in evading their duty to their country in its hour of peril. It is now insisted that the lists should never have been published at all until the Department was absolutely convinced that there appeared thereon the name of no man who actually rendered either military or naval service during the period of the World War.

In this connection, attention is again invited to the definition of the term "Deserters from the draft."

What Desertion Is

Deserters from the draft are men who registered under the provisions of the selective service law and who failed to report for military service at a specified time and place, although ordered by the draft authorities to do so.

Under the law these men are held to have been inducted into the military service of the United States as of the date on which they were ordered to report; and since they have never been discharged from such service, they are still under military jurisdiction and hence are liable to trial by general court martial for their offense of desertion.

As a matter of fact, therefore, the Department would have been entirely warranted in including in the published lists of men charged with desertion from the draft the name of every registrant who failed to report for military service at the time and place specified in the notice sent to him by his local board, and whether or not be subsequently served honorably in the Army, Navy or Marine Corps of the United States or in the naval or military forces of the Allied powers. Under the law and the selective service regulations every person whose status is that of a deserter from the draft, within the terms of the foregoing definition, is a deserter from the draft, regardless of any subsequent honorable service which he may have rendered.

Original List Reduced

In order, however, to protect so far as possible those men who, though technically deserters from the draft, ing the emergency, the War Depart- did actually perform their duty dur- ment undertook gratuitously the laborous task of check and re-checking the records of 489,003 men, originally certified by the draft authorities as deserters from the draft, in order to eliminate the names of such men from the published lists. In doing this the list was checked three separate times against the records in The Adjutant General's Office. It was also checked against the records of the Navy Department and the Marine Corps; also by such State authorities as had notified the Department that they were in a position to assist in checking them, and also by such former members of local boards as had signified their willingness to furnish any information that may have come to them since the close of active operations on the part of local boards. As the result of all this labor, the number of names on the list was reduced from 489,003 to approximately 155,000.

But is should be borne in mind that the Department was strictly speaking not required to do all this, inasmuch as every man named on the original list was actually a deserter from the draft, and was liable to trial by general courtmartial for his offense. The fact of his subsequent honorable service, would, it is true, in most cases, if established, result in the dismissal of the charge, but not invariably, as is shown by a case recently tried in Boston, in which it was held that the offense of of the accused was so flagrant as to merit punishment notwithstanding his subsequent honorable service.

In thus undertaking gratuitously the task of removing from the lists the names of those who, subsequent to their desertion, did render honorable military or naval service, the Department was actuated to a considerable extent through consideration of the shame that would necessarily be shared by their families, both of the present and future generations.

Much Chance for Mistakes

The Department has also been severely criticized because it was found to be necessary to call upon the registrants themselves to assist in the task of straightening out their records it being held that all the information necessary should be readily available from the records of the soldiers themselves.

It must be realized that, in an army of more than four million men, it is a common occurance to find many men bearing exactly the same name. There were over 2,100 John Johnstons over 2,000 William Johnstons, and more than 3,000 John Smiths, with a variety of middle initials. In many cases men of the same name entered the service from the same locality and oftentimes even their physical descriptions do not serve to distinguish them; frequently their wives have identical given names. Under these conditions, the War Department very naturally found it impossible at times to identify a registrant, charged with desertion from the draft, with a man of exactly the same name who voluntarily enlisted, say, in the Navy in some other State. Yet the records themselves are as complete as it was humanly possible to make them during the abnormal conditions incident to the prosecution of warfare on a gigantic scale.

As an illustration of this, take the case of Benjamin Kaufman, of Brooklyn, New York, who was awarded the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action with the enemy in the Forest of Argonne, France. On one of the first lists published in Brooklyn, there appeared the name of Benjamin Kaufman. In the belief that a glaring error had been committed, the matter was brought to the Department's attention. It developed, however, that there were two men of the same name, both from Brooklyn, New York one of whom had been properly listed as a deserter from the draft. The point to be made however, is that, had the draft deserter and the Medal of Honor man proved to be identical, the Department could never have determined this from its records alone, which show that these two men not only bear the same name and come from the same city, but that they both registered on June 5, 1917, were within four months of being the same age, and so far as the records show, even seem to resemble each other physically.

Names Misspelled

But the difficulty was considerably enhanced in those cases, which were very numerous, where the man registered under the name and afterwards was enlisted or inducted in some other locality under another name. This was sometimes intentionally done; in other cases it resulted from misunderstanding, long foreign names being especially susceptible to misspelling. Numerous instances have come to light of the transposition of first and last names under these circumstances in the cases of illiterate men of foreign birth. Thus Giuseppi Luigi, who registers with a local board in New York, becomes Luigi Giuseppi when he enters the service as a volunteer at Paterson, N. J. In a much larger number of cases, the spelling of the man's name was only slightly altered under the same conditions, but even this was oftentimes sufficient to render absolute identification impossible.

It thus becomes evident that, notwithstanding all the efforts expended by the War Department in checking the lists of alleged draft deserters, it was impossible to determine in every case from the records alone whether or not any individual named therein actually performed military service. In such a contingency, no other course was open than to call upon the individuals themselves. This was accordingly done repeatedly through every available source. Wide publicity had already been given to the Department's intention to publish lists of the names of all men charged with desertion from the draft. Consequently, registrants who had any doubts about their status and yet remained so indifferent as to whether or not their names were included in the lists as to make no effort to have their records straightened out, have no just cause for complaint if their names are published along with those of other men who stand charged on the records of the War Department with desertion from the draft.

OLDEST CATHOLIC PRIEST IN THE WORLD IS DEAD

Father Damase Dandurand Saw The Buffalo Vanish and the Settlers Come in Canada's Early Days

Winnipeg, Man., May 31,—Father Damase Dandurand, oldest Catholic priest in the world, is dead at St. Boniface, a suburb of Winnipeg. He was one hundred and two years old.

Father Dandurand was born at La Prairie, Quebec, in 1819. The record of his birth is still in the parish archives. He was educated at Chambly and ordained to the priesthood when twenty-two years old. He was appointed to Ottowa in 1944 when the present capital of Canada was unknown as Bytown and labored there thirty years. He was the first Canadian priest to join the Order of Oblates in 1842 and at his death was dean of the 3,000 members of the order throughout the world.

He came to St. Boniface in 1875. Winnipeg, across the Red River, was a group of cabins under the walls of Fort Garry. The "bells of St. Boniface," celebrated by Whittier, called to worship in the little mission church only Indians and trappers. The Hudson's Bay Company had just surrendered its proprietary and governing powers over the whole of Western Canada to the new Dominion Government.

The young priest saw the buffalo vanish and the settlers come. He saw wigwam villages give place to towns and cities and the prairie wilderness change into prosperous farms. Time was when Father Dandurand was known to practically every man, woman and child in Manitoba. His life at St. Boniface epitomized the marvelous agricultural and industrial development of Western Canada.

On his one hundredth birthday, two years ago, he celebrated high mass in St. Boniface Cathedral. He was present a little later at the reception to the Prince of Wales in Winnipeg and the priest of the pioneer past stretched out his hand in blessing to the King of the future.

Father Dandurand was conscious almost to the minute of his death. His last words were of thanks for the prayers of his brother oblates and of joy that it had been granted him to sink to his last rest on the day of the Feast of St. Joseph.

The Rev. R. E. Snodgrass was the speaker at the memorial exercises held yesterday in the Methodist Church at Graham. After the program in the church, graves were decorated and there were memorial ceremonies at the cemetary. Former soldiers were members of a firing squad which fired a salute and buglers sounded taps. Music was also furnished by a band. The Rev. Mr. Snodgrass made a short address at the cemetery in memory of the old soldiers, and J. M. Decker made the address in memory of the soldiers of the World War.

Will Saunders and sisters, Misses Prudye and Floy Saunders, visited at Union Star, Mo., Sunday and Monday with relatives.

How MICHELIN has overcome the commonest causes of tire trouble

NUMBER 8

Non-Parallel Wheels

When wheels are not parallel (a common fault, especially of front wheels), tires must be dragged over the ground, so to speak, since they revolve at an angle to the direction in which the car is traveling.

Ordinary tires wear away rapidly as a result of such abuse, but Michelins stand up so long that only carlessness can account for failure to detect the trouble before the tire is vitally affected. This is due to the greater toughness, thickness and breadth of the Michelin Tread. Come in and compare Michelins with other tires in these important points.

They never made a cigarette like this in my day—

The Camel idea wasn't born then. It was the exclusive expert Camel blend that revolutionized cigarette smoking.

That Camel blend of choice Turkish and Domestic tobaccos hits just the right spot. It gives Camels such mellow mildness and fragrance!

The first time I smoked Camels I knew they were made for me. I knew they were the smoothest, finest cigarette in the world, at any price.

Nobody can tell me anything different.
